GSK JOBS: IT COULD TOP 1,000

By CHRIS MOSS

chris.moss@hertsexsexnews.co.uk

THE total number of job losses at GlaxoSmithKline's research and development plant in Harlow could top 1,000.

The drugs giant indicated that around 380 employees would be made redundant following the closure of part of its New Frontiers Science Park site at Pinnacles, but this figure does not include the hundreds of ancillary

A BITTER PILL

FLASHBACK: Last week's Star staff also facing unemployment.

When cleaners, caterers, maintenance workers and security personnel – most of whom are not directly employed by GSK – are taken into account, the potential number of redundancies from a total workforce of around 2,000 looks almost certain to run into four figures.

This week the Star has been flooded with emails and telephone calls from furious members of staff – all of whom have been warned not to speak to the press – accusing the firm for “putting profits ahead of people”.

One said: “GSK claims that only 380 people will be made jobless by the closure of most of the site, but the

Back from the brink

A RESCUE package to save Harlow Town FC from the brink of financial oblivion was revealed by town MP Bill Rammell on Saturday. Platinum Sports Management, an agency which looks after the interests of professional sports players, was officially unveiled as the new owner of the cash-crippled Ryman League club. Pictured after Saturday's press conference are, left to right, new owners Tommy Cunningham and John Barnett with Mr Rammell and Harlow Council leader Andrew Johnson.

Tory apologises for email gaffe

By DAN PHILLIPS

daniel.phillips@hertsexnews.co.uk

A SENIOR Tory councillor has apologised to a party supporter after describing her as "stupid" in an email which he sent to her in error.

The 63-year-old woman was shocked to receive the message from Tony Hall, chairman of Harlow Council's environment and community committee, which he had only meant to send to Parliamentary candidate Robert Halfon.

In his email Mr Hall described the woman as "short-sighted and ill-informed", adding: "She clearly ly has no idea about the real world and is probably as stupid as I think!"

The woman, a life-long Conservervative voter, said: "I was totally insulted. Is this how an elected public servant should write about us behind our backs? Is this really what he and Robert Halfon say to each other?"

"He should not write about anybody like that, whether it's private or not. It just shows what he thinks about members of the public. It's a terrible attitude."

The woman, who has asked to remain anonymous, had originally sent an email to Mr Halfon listing concerns about Harlow Council's new wheelie bins and the sale of the derelict swimming pool site to private developers before receiving the response from Mr Hall.

He later apologised for sending the email in error but added: "Of course I stand by my remarks generally".

The woman said the response did not amount to an apology and said she would never again vote Conservative in local elections.

This week Mr Hall told the Star: "I made a mistake and I have apologised for sending her the wrong email. It was written in a rush and it was not something meant for public consumption."

"I'd spent an hour preparing a response. She then sent an email saying I was being condescending. I didn't know then if there was any point in answering it further."

Mr Halfon said: "This was an isolated email which I know Tony has already apologised and I also apologise if it caused any offence."

"Mistakes happen; people write mistakes in emails all the time. I hope she will accept the apology."

Students are flipping great

CATERING students from Harlow College braved sub-zero temperatures to take part in the town centre pancake race on Thursday.

Two teams battled it out for supremacy on a makeshift course in Broad Walk in a bid to be crowned 2010 champions. But the end result was too close to call and both teams were awarded winners' medals by Harlow Council chairwoman Edna Stevens.

The event, organised by the Harlow Town Centre Partnership, raised a total of £70 for St Clare Hospice.

Hospice community fundraiser Vicky Parker said: "We are very grateful for the opportunity to work with students from Harlow College in many ways but the annual pancake race is a highlight in the calendar."

"It's the local community of all ages that have created St Clare Hospice and continue to fund the care we provide for our community."

Opinions sought on renal services

PLANS to improve kidney dialysis services in Harlow were discussed at a meeting attended by patients, NHS staff and carers.

Those present were invited to give their views on proposed locations for new renal units and got the chance to speak with clinicians and commissioners responsible for introducing the new services.

Many kidney patients from Harlow currently have to travel to Chelmsford or London for dialysis, but under the new proposals they would not be expected to travel for more than 30 minutes from their home for treatment.

If given the green light by the East of England Specialised Commissioning Group, the project will be funded by a £22m guaranteed investment from all 14 primary care trusts in the eastern region.

Police on the trail of break-in gang

POLICE are appealing for the help in identifying a group of young men who broke into two houses in Harlow.

The group struck first at a house in Brockles Mead at about 7.15pm last Wednesday, stealing electrical goods and a crystal ornament.

Less than two hours later a teenager answered the door at his home in Rushes Mead and was pushed aside by a group of about 10 men wearing hoodies and with their faces covered.

They searched the property before taking electrical items, cash and a decorative sword.

Detectives are asking anyone who knows the identity of those responsible or where the stolen property can be located to call Harlow police on 0300 333 4444.

OPEN AFTERNOON - MONDAY 1 MARCH 2010

HARLOW MP and Armed Forces minister Bill Rammell recently visited Afghanistan for the fifth time during which he was briefed on Operation Moshtarak involving around 15,000 troops from the International Security Assistance Force and Afghan National Army. During his visit he kept this diary exclusively for the Star.

Why we have to see this through

Sunday, January 31

I arrive bright and early at RAF Brize Norton for the start of my fifth visit to Afghanistan. Each time my feeling has been the same, a sense of responsibility and excitement at the challenge of the coming days but also nervous anticipation. If you're not nervous when departing for Afghanistan, I think you've lost touch with reality.

The flight is delayed by an hour so we manage to watch the start of Andy Murray's final in Melbourne, which is shown on the BBC. As someone who has long campaigned for our major sporting events to be on terrestrial TV rather than satellite, this pleases me.

After a seven-hour military flight we land in Kandahar. Time for a sandwich and briefing with Regional Commander South on current operations and plans for Operation Moshtarak, which is the next big push against the Taliban.

The aim is to extend the authority and influence of the Afghan government in central Helmand. It is a more Afghan-planned and led operation than ever before. This is a key element of our strategy to build the capability of Afghan forces progressively so we can get to the stage when it is safe for our forces to leave.

Our flight is delayed and I finally arrive at Camp Bastion in Helmand at 3am.

Monday, February 1

Breakfast with the troops at 8am. I make the point of finding out the 'shop floor' view of what is happening. There is a real sense of commitment to the mission and a universal view that equipment is very good and much better than four-five years ago, despite media reports to the contrary.

We move to meet the pilots of the Merlin helicopters which have transferred from Iraq. We've rightly increased flying hours by 100 per cent.

We fly by helicopter to our forward operating base in Musa Qal'eh. I really notice progress since I was here in July when this was the frontline with the Taliban. Now they've been pushed much further back and I witness 1,000 Afghans at the local market. Much greater confidence and security.

We fly to Sangin, still the site of some of the bloodiest attacks by the Taliban. I visit the local bazaar and talk to locals, ordinary people trying to make a living. I travel in a Mastiff to our patrol base which is literally at the frontline. I look out the top of the base where this morning the Taliban had been firing from 150 metres away. With a chill down my spine this brings home very clearly the reality of what is happening.

I talk to our soldiers here and sense their real fear and apprehension of improvised explosive devices (IEDs). But this just makes them more determined to see the operation through.

Fly back to Bastion and am ushered into a traditional curry with the Gurkhas to the sound of their bagpipes. A wonderful experience.

On the evening military flight to Kabul the pilot invites me up into the cockpit. As we reach cruising altitude he turns to me and says we've got a problem and he'll have to shut an engine and divert to Kandahar. As someone who until a few years ago was scared of flying, this news leaves me to say the least unsettled.

We make it to Kandahar safely and get another flight to Kabul. I haven't been here since 2004; the progress and development is huge.

Tuesday, February 2

I start with a briefing at the embassy on latest political developments. The new Karzai government is bedding down. Karzai does represent the will of the Afghan people but he needs to do more to tackle corruption.

I spend the day in meetings at NATO with ISAF (the international coalition) commanders and ministers. We discuss the political strategy of the Afghans, offering reintegration to those in the Taliban prepared to renounce violence. This has to be part of our approach.

I also visit the British cemetery where there are plaques for every serviceman killed in Afghanistan.

I finish my short visit with renewed admiration for the courage, bravery and professionalism of our armed forces. Also, an even stronger belief that we have to see this through.

If we and the 43 other nations were to leave tomorrow, before the Afghan forces have sufficient strength, I have no doubt what would happen – the Taliban would return and we would see the re-emergence of the Al-Qaeda capability targeting this country and others and a massive flow of refugees across the border into Pakistan, further destabilising that country which is where I'm headed next.

During my visit to Afghanistan I also saw a detention facility where Taliban prisoners are held. Detention is necessary to protect our troops and help us get information to thwart the indiscriminate planting of improvised explosive devices.

Wednesday, February 3

I spend the day in Islamabad meeting ministers and the military. The security challenge we face has to look at Afghanistan and Pakistan together.

I depart with my view reinforced of the need for our presence in Afghanistan for the present. It's because of Pakistan. This country's population will increase by 50 per cent, it has insufficient economic growth and immature political structures. It faces the challenge of violent extremism and it possesses nuclear weapons.

The last thing Pakistan needs is Afghanistan returning to the Taliban and destabilising it further. That's in Pakistan's interest and ours as well.

Thursday, February 4

I fly back to London and straight back to a House of Commons reception I've organised for Harlow trade unionists and others.

The only problem is when we finish at 10pm my body is still on Pakistan time - 3am!

Burglar with 27 previous convictions is jailed

A THIEF who burgled a house while under the influence of drink and drugs has been jailed for two years.

Matthew Daly (19), who comes from Harlow but whose address was given as no fixed abode, and an accomplice were caught red-handed in the lounge of the property on July 13 last year by homeowner Derek Woods.

Daly pleaded guilty to the burglary when he appeared at Chelmsford Crown Court on Friday. The court was told he had no money to make compensation payments to the devastated homeowners, who lost jewellery of great sentimental value.

Lynne Shirley, prosecuting, said Mr Woods returned home to find his house in Chigwell had been ransacked and saw two men running away through the back garden.

He gave chase and managed to grab Daly, although his accomplice escaped. In the ensuing struggle, the defendant wriggled free but dropped bags containing various items.

He was later arrested after his fingerprints were found at the scene.

Ms Shirley, prosecuting, said among the items that were taken were pieces of jewellery which had been collected from all around the world.

She said the total value of the goods stolen by the thieves - who had used a ladder to gain access through a window - was £2,500.

Keith Betts, representing Daly, said in mitigation his client had started taking drugs after being admitted to a children's home when he was 14.

The court heard Daly had committed 27 previous convictions.

Passing sentence, Judge David Turner told him: "You took a toxic combination of brandy and cocaine. I would dearly loved to have awarded compensation but circumstances don't allow it."

The judge declined to follow the recommendation of a pre-sentence report suggesting a community penalty, adding: "This was a frightening and distressing for the couple."

"You have 27 convictions for 46 offences; you knew precisely what the consequences would be."

Budget cuts 'will bring only misery'

CONSERVATIVE spending plans will bring "nothing but misery" to residents of Harlow, according to opposition councillors.

The Tories' budget proposals - which include a council tax freeze, 14 redundancies, cuts in grants to voluntary services and a number of service cutbacks - were rubber-stamped at a full council meeting on Thursday.

Council leader Councillor Andrew Johnson said it would ease the strain on the family budget. But Liberal Democrat councillors criticised the proposals, claiming voluntary organisations would struggle to stay afloat and blasting new charges for services as "stealth taxes".

By DAN PHILLIPS

They proposed reinstating block cleansing and free bulk waste collections, abolishing charges for pest control and keeping the Town Show in council hands.

They also argued for increases to the grant aid budget and funding to Harlow Welfare Rights & Advice, while calling for car parking charges in Bush Fair, The Stow and Old Harlow to be scrapped.

To pay for the measures, they said £337,000 could be saved annually by closing the Civic Centre for four nights each week and scrapping vacant posts within the council's planning and regeneration departments.

Lib Dem group leader Chris Millington said: "The voluntary sector is the lifeblood of this town and the Tories say they support them, but once again we see cuts."

"Where this cut falls is still unknown so these organisations cannot budget for the year ahead. Cutting free bulk waste services will only result in more fly-tipping and the Town Show is an important for the image of the town."

Labour's alternative budget also included reinstating free car parking from June, council support for the Town Show, free bulk waste collection and free pest control.

The group proposed making one-off payments to the grants panel, HWRA and the Aneurin Bevan Centre to delay the introduction of hire fees.

Savings would be found by cutting the cost of the council's new waste contract, limiting the use of consultants and reducing the chairman's allowance.

Labour leader Mark Wilkinson told the meeting: "The pain that Harlow's Conservative council has caused since they came to power is plain to see and there is a visual reminder on every doorstep in the shape of an expensive and almost universally unpopular wheelee bin."

"The Conservatives now conjure up a zero per cent council tax increase and what do they offer in return? Nothing, except perhaps more misery."

Mr Johnson responded by describing Labour plans, which would see some costs met by dipping into council reserves, as a "manana budget" that would leave the town bankrupt.

Both the Liberal Democrat and Labour amendments were voted down by the Conservatives.

Nursery tots are given a taste of Chinese delights

TODDLERS at a Harlow pre-school got a taste of the Far East when chefs from The Water Margin dropped by to celebrate Chinese New Year.

The Chinese restaurant in the Water Gardens sent two of its top kitchen staff to Rum Tum Tuggers nursery to teach the tots how to use chopsticks before they tucked into a feast of noodles, spring rolls and fortune cookies.

Nursery manager Laura Boltwood said: "It was certainly something very different for the children to enjoy and we would like to take this opportunity to thank The Water Margin for taking the time to visit us."

Chef Ky Lee is pictured helping Drew Sunderland (2) get to grips with using chopsticks.

PAH pays out for solicitor's death

Prize time for Star's Superkids

THE four winners of the Star's Superkids competition have been presented with their super prizes. Jazmin Shuter, Zak Kyazze, Alfie Stevens and Micheal Biggs, along with their families, were invited to our offices in Harlow town centre on Friday to receive 20in by 16in framed prints of their winning photographs on Friday.

The presentations were made by Star editor Ken Morley and acting news editor Chris Moss.

Jazmin, Zak, Alfie and Micheal were voted by our readers as top tots in the area when the Star ran the competition back in October. (photo: HAR0627707)

By COURT REPORTER
star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THE widow of a solicitor who died at Princess Alexandra Hospital after being admitted with respiratory failure has been awarded an undisclosed six-figure sum in settlement of a claim for medical negligence.

The High Court in London heard that Peter Wells (59), of Coopersale Common, Epping, died from what was described as a "reversible and treatable condition".

Mr Wells suffered from the inherited disorder osteogenesis imperfecta, a brittle bone condition which left him wheelchair-bound and subject to recurrent fractures.

Despite this condition he was described as being in good health prior to November 2005 when he visited his doctor complaining of a persistent dry cough.

Then, in December of that year, he was admitted to the Harlow hospital with respiratory failure. But medics failed to intubate Mr Wells, a procedure that lawyers acting on behalf of his widow, Crystal, argued would have saved his life and put him on the road to a full recovery.

Admitting the hospital's liability for his death, barrister Neil Sheldon offered the PAH NHS Trust's condolences to Mr Wells' widow and their young son, Matthew.

He told the court: "He was not given the treatment he was entitled to expect and that is a matter of profound regret to all involved."

"We wish to offer our sincere condolences to Mrs Wells. I wish her and her son the very best for the future."

The court heard Mr Wells had been in private practice as a solicitor for a number of years and was also well-known for his work in the community.

In 1998 he was voted Epping Forest District Council's Citizen of the Year.

Mrs Wells wept in the public gallery as she listened to the judge pay tribute to her late husband's work.

"I have no hesitation in approving the settlement," he told her.

"I have read the papers and I have been immensely impressed by tributes that were paid to your husband. He was rightly described as a truly remarkable man."

Child obesity in Harlow is highest in the region

SHOCKING figures have revealed Harlow has the highest levels of child obesity in the east of England.

According to statistics released by the National Child Measurement Programme, over a fifth of the town's Year Six pupils and 11 per cent of children at reception age are obese.

Neighbouring areas have considerably lower obesity rates, with 14 per cent of 10-year-olds in East Herts classified as obese and 17.8 per cent in Epping Forest.

The research was carried out by NHS staff, who visited schools across the region to weigh and measure almost 90 per cent of 10-year-olds.

Conservative Parliamentary candidate Robert Halfon was so concerned by the figures he has pledged to write to local health chiefs to demand assurances the problem is being taken seriously.

"I was shocked and disappointed to read these figures about children in Harlow and I will be writing to NHS West Essex to ask why the figures for Harlow are so high and what is being done to address the issue."

"Somewhere the message about healthy eating and exercise just isn't getting through to the children – and their parents – and we need to do something about it."

The Change4Life roadshow – a high-profile NHS campaign tackling the growing problem of childhood obesity head-on – will visit Harlow's Water Gardens complex on Saturday.

Hawks saved from oblivion

A RESCUE package to save Harlow Town FC from the brink of financial oblivion was revealed by MP Bill Rammell on Saturday.

Platinum Sports Management, an agency which looks after the interests of professional sports players, was officially unveiled as the new owner of the cash-crippled Ryman League club.

Former Hawks boss Tommy Cunningham, one of the partners in the business, spearheaded the company's rescue package.

His business partner, John Barnett, is the new club chairman while Mr Cunningham will become a director with responsibility for overseeing a complete overhaul to cut costs.

Former club chairman Jeff Bothwell has handed over his 36 per cent stake in the club to PSM. Mr Bothwell's son David has transferred his eight per cent share and Carol Bothwell has handed over the remaining 46 per cent.

In turn, the company has taken on the club's debts which are £189,000, according to the Company Voluntary Agreement agreed in September when HTFC staved off a winding-up order.

At least £60,000 is thought to be owed to Harlow Council, while the other main creditors are Barclays Bank and brewers Carlsberg-Tetley.

PSM has agreed to pay off these creditors and is determined to keep the club in the Ryman League. The side is currently 15 points from safety with 16 games left.

Announcing the takeover deal prior to Saturday's home game against league leaders Lowestoft Town, Mr Rammell said: "I am delighted that after months of hard work we have been able to make a deal which suits all partners and most importantly will give Harlow Town a fighting chance for the future."

"Following the CVA, I was determined to stop Harlow Town FC from going into liquidation. As a result of this deal I look forward to seeing the team win many more games at Barrows Farm in the future."

Mr Bothwell said: "I am delighted to have reached an agreement with Tommy Cunningham and his associates. This I believe to be in the very best interest of Harlow Town Football Club."

"I have always had a good relationship with Tommy and I am positive this will continue," said Mr Bothwell. "My honest belief is this transaction is both exciting and a positive move for our beloved football club."

Mr Cunningham is convinced the club can not only stave off relegation to the Essex Senior League but, more importantly, ensure the town retains a top-grade non-League football stadium.

"Throughout negotiations it was clear that we all had the common aim of keeping Harlow Town FC playing and winning in the town," he said.

"I look forward to working with Bill Rammell, Harlow Council, the Sports Trust and the team and staff at the club in new and exciting times for Harlow Town FC."

HARLOW Council leader Andrew Johnson put aside political differences to pay tribute to the role of Labour MP Bill Rammell in brokering the deal to rescue the cash-crippled club.

The Conservative councillor said: "It's not often that political people pay tribute to each other but Bill has done a wonderful job and chaired many conversations behind the scenes."

It was before Christmas when Mr Rammell was approached by the club's majority shareholder, Jeff Bothwell, and former chairman Steve Ray, now a life vice-president, to find new owners and save the club which was reportedly £189,000 in debt.

Mr Bothwell said: "I would thank Bill for his hard work in helping to make this happen."

Tommy Cunningham, one of the new owners, also paid tribute to Mr Rammell. He said: "I am grateful to him for bringing all parties together to reach this agreement."

Speaking at Saturday's press conference, Mr Rammell paid tribute to the efforts of Carol Bothwell during the crisis. "She has got the club through very challenging circumstances," he said.

In a statement, Mrs Bothwell said: "I have always worked hard in the best interests of the club and this week's agreement is no different. I am very pleased my ex-husband has agreed to this deal."

"I have every confidence that Tommy Cunningham and Platinum Sports Management will ensure that Harlow Town FC thrives in the future."

Mr Ray, who made the trek from his Isle of Wight home for Saturday's game, said: "This is a huge step forward for the club. Working with Tommy Cunningham in a chairman/manager relationship in the past proved so positive that I have no doubt that his return will benefit the club enormously."

Pat Hay, chairman of the Harlow & District Sports Trust, added: "I am pleased that a deal has been made and I'm delighted that the local stadium will remain up and running for the whole community."

Chairman: We have got lots to do

FEARS over the very existence of the Harlow Town FC's Barrows Farm stadium prompted Harlow MP Bill Rammell and Harlow Council chiefs to instigate a rescue deal.

Saturday's announcement that Platinum Sports Management are the new owners brings to an end nine months of turmoil at the Ryman League club, which faced a winding-up order in the summer after chairman Simon Morgan quit as debts spiralled out of control.

The stadium was built in 2006 with cash from the sale of the club's old Sportcentre home as part of the Gateway Project. But the combination of being outside the town centre and meeting vastly-increased stadium-running costs plunged the club into financial difficulties.

Mr Rammell brokered the deal to save the club during intensive talks with majority shareholder Jeff Bothwell and his estranged partner Carol Bothwell, who was appointed as chairman and chief executive in July. These have also involved Harlow Council and the Harlow & District Sports Trust.

At Saturday's press conference, Mr Rammell said: "I have long fought for Harlow Town FC. I was determined it should not fold. I think we have now got a very bright future."

Council leader Andrew Johnson said: "This is one of the best grounds in Essex. As a community asset the town needs a football club that is financially viable and it needs money behind it. I congratulate the new owners and welcome them to the town."

"The council will continue to work with the club and its new owners in the interests of the town and wishes the new owners and the team success for the future."

New club chairman John Barnett added: "We have a lot to do. If we have to make changes we will but it will be for the better. We are going to do our best. It may take a little bit longer but we will get there."

Asda's giving a helping hand to judo ace Ronnie

By DAN PHILLIPS

daniel.phillips@hertsessexnews.co.uk

LOCAL judo player Ronnie Plumb will compete throughout 2010 with the support of a £500 grant from Harlow's Asda supermarket.

The store supported Ronnie (18) last year and has chosen to continue the partnership through its Sporting Chance scheme.

The money will pay for new equipment and training.

Ronnie is currently ranked number one in the UK judo under 20s. Already in his career he has become Millennium champion three times and London Open champion three times.

In total, he has won 27 golds, seven silvers and nine bronzes in competition and is currently studying for a sports diploma at Harlow College.

Mark Withers, general store manager at Asda, said: "The Sporting Chance programme has been incredibly successful and I know local customers and colleagues are so proud to be continuing our support for Ronnie. "We are really looking forward to welcoming Ronnie back into the store."

RONNIE PLUMB

"We've already got some exciting plans for fundraising with him later in the year to help him with travel, equipment and training and give him as much encouragement as we can."

The Sporting Chance initiative has seen more than 1,000 of the UK's young sports stars receive help since its launch in 2008.

The Harlow store will also be offering the children of customers and employees the chance to participate in five free sports activities during this year's school holidays.

For more information on Sporting Chance and free sports activities in Harlow, visit www.asda-sportingchance.co.uk.

Rotary's collection for polio campaign

MEMBERS of the Rotary Club of Harlow Tye will be collecting money at the Tesco store in Edinburgh Way next Saturday (February 27) to help eradicate polio.

Last year 1,600 new cases were reported in northern India, Pakistan, Afghanistan and Nigeria – the only countries where the disease still exists.

When Rotary International began its campaign to eradicate polio in 1985 there were 350,000 new cases annually. Harlow Tye Rotary Club spokesman John Pritchard said: "We are trying to do our bit, so please support us if you can."

Meanwhile, the club has also donated £1,000 for two shelter boxes to be sent to earthquake-hit Haiti.

The boxes of humanitarian aid contain a disaster relief tent for up to 10 people, water purification equipment, a stove, blankets and other items essential for survival.

Save the badgers

WILDLIFE lovers in Harlow have been offered the opportunity to help protect the town's badger population.

The Harlow Badger Group is seeking volunteers to help with the care and protection of badgers in the local community. Informal meetings are held at Parndon Wood Nature Reserve.

Organiser Derek Barry said: "Many Harlow residents would be surprised to know just how many badgers there are living near them."

"If you can devote a few hours a week and you are interested in badgers and their conservation, we would love to hear from you."

For further information, email info@hbg-uk.org, call (01279) 503332 or visit www.hbg-uk.org.

Charity soccer

A CHARITY football match takes place in Harlow on Saturday in aid of Cancer Research UK.

The game at Passmores School kicks off at 1pm but refreshments and a bouncy castle will be available from noon. There will be a raffle with a £20 Tesco gift voucher as first prize and a children's raffle.

The event is being organised by Adam Sutton and Clair Stapleton in memory of a friend's mother who recently died of cancer.

Entry is £4 for adults – which includes free entry to the raffle – and £2 for children (under 2s free).

Change of venue

THE location of the scheduled blood donor session in Harlow today (Thursday) has been changed from the Church Langley Community Centre to the Latton Bush Centre, in Southern Way. Session times are still 2-3.45pm and 5-7.45pm.

Strongman Terry muscles in on the action at gym

STRONGMAN Terry Hollands flexed his muscles when he visited Ripped Gym in Harlow. Hollands won the UK's Strongest Man competition in 2005 and two years later took the title of Britain's Strongest Man. He then competed in the equivalent world competition and finished third.

His visit to the Wych Elm gym was part of a DVD and photo shoot for bodybuilding website www.muscle-talk.co.uk.

Michelle Meade, from the gym, said: "Terry answered questions, posed for photographs and signed things for many of our members who came along especially."

HEALTH CHECK The second in a series of monthly articles on local health issues

Three-point plan to reduce heart disease

PEOPLE are being urged to wear the colour red next week in celebration of healthy hearts.

February is National Heart Month and next Friday (February 26) has been designated as the Wear Red for Heart day by the British Heart Foundation.

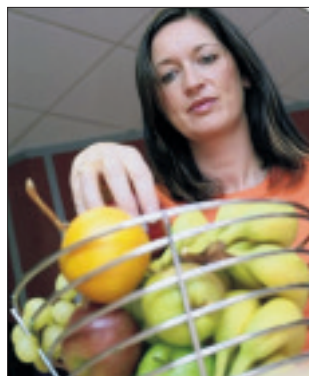

Heart disease is the biggest single killer of people in the UK with someone having a heart attack every two minutes. Nearly three million people have heart disease which restricts lifestyle and, in many cases, is severely disabling. Yet it is estimated that 42,000 deaths from heart disease could be prevented every year.

Jill Troup, head of cardiology at Harlow's Princess Alexandra Hospital, said: "We see and treat so many people here at PAH whose whole life is

KEEPING YOUR HEART HEALTHY: Regular exercise and a balanced diet will help to keep your heart in tip-top condition changed by the onset of heart disease. "Many of them have to undergo major life-saving surgery and all of them have to face up to changing their lifestyles to survive. But, with the help of our specialist nurses, dietitians and physiotherapist, many of our patients gain a new lease of life by following a routine which offers them hope for the future.

"It is a routine which if more people followed it as a second nature would mean far less heart disease."

Three key steps for a healthier heart are:

● DON'T SMOKE. Smoking is the main cause of coronary heart disease and kicking the habit is the biggest single stop you can take to reduce the risk of harming your heart.

● EAT HEALTHILY. It doesn't mean going on radical diets but does mean cutting down on the intake of salt and foods which are particularly fatty.

● BE MORE ACTIVE. Any exercise, including 30 minutes of walking, can lower blood pressure, reduce weight and cut cholesterol levels.

For more about the Wear Red for Heart day, go to the British Heart Foundation website on at www.bhf.org.uk.

Where to go and what to do ...

LOCAL people are being urged to choose wisely on the best place to get their treatment when they fall ill.

The Choose Well campaign was launched nationally in October last year and local NHS organisations have joined together in west Essex to get the message across to the public. Research has shown that a significant number of people still go to hospital accident and emergency departments when there are other services more convenient and suitable for their needs.

The campaign features a colour-coded thermometer to help people to match up their symptoms with a particular NHS service which is right for their needs.

Staff across the NHS - including GPs, nurses, pharmacists, paramedics and hospital consultants - are all involved in promoting the campaign.

Raine Hunt, head of communications for Princess Alexandra Hospital, said: "In numerous surveys, when people have been asked about how they wanted future urgent care services to be provided, a very strong message has been that people weren't really aware of all the services that already existed for them or how they should use them.

"Helping people to make the right choice in accessing services will not only benefit patients themselves but also assist doctors, nurses and other healthcare professionals in maintaining high quality services. We want to make sure that people living in west Essex get the right care in the right place at the right time."

THE thermometer takes people through the levels of need and the care they should be receiving, colour by colour.

BLUE is for self care for the treatment of minor illnesses (and flu symptoms) which involves combining a well-stocked medicine cabinet with taking plenty of liquids and rest.

DARK GREEN is for accessing NHS Direct on 0845 4647 or NHS Choices as the first ports of call for medical advice 24/7, seven days a week.

LIGHT GREEN is for seeking advice from your local pharmacists on common ailments and the best medicines to treat them

YELLOW is for contacting your GP for medical advice, examinations and prescriptions for illnesses you just can't shake off.

ORANGE is for attending your local urgent care centre or walk-in centre for treatment of minor illnesses or injuries without appointment. The Harlow Walk-in Centre is on the border of the Princess Alexandra Hospital site while other urgent care centres are based at Herts and Essex Hospital at Bishop's Stortford and St Margaret's Hospital, Epping.

RED is for accident and emergency for critical or life-threatening conditions.

PAH leads the way with text service for patient feedback

WANT to know how your hospital is performing? Want to make a comment about your local NHS? Have a query about your local NHS or need to know the best treatment for an illness?

NHS Choices enables people to find the answers to these questions and many more. All you need is access to the internet.

The website - www.nhs.uk - also provides features and advice on health and diet and, by linking with NHS Direct, offers a full body symptom check so you can find out what the lump, bump or soreness might be.

And in a first for the country, the Princess Alexandra Hospital Trust recently linked up with NHS Choices to offer a new service enabling local patients to text their feedback on what they thought about their care at the hospital.

Patients can send their ratings and comments about the hospital by texting the word PAH to 64746.

The user will then get a text message with the first question in a sequence sent to their mobile phone. Simply follow the instructions and text back the answer which prompts the next question to be sent to the phone until the process is finished. Comments will then go on the PAH site on the Choices website.

Yvonne Blucher, executive director of nursing and patient care, said: "We are delighted to be the first trust in the country to pilot this new and innovative service for NHS Choices.

"The text service complements the many existing ways in which our patients can currently give feedback. This includes the hand-held patient experience trackers, patient comment cards, hospital links with the patient council and feedback which is given verbally to our staff.

"Patient feedback forms part of the hospital's core strategy to improve patient care and is a key element of our vision to be the best hospital in the east of England.

"All feedback received by the trust is used to improve the patient experience or address issues and we welcome any channels which can make providing feedback easier for our patients."

The dog with allergies to almost everything

THE mere thought of tucking into a nice juicy bone is enough to get most dogs salivating, but not Alsatian-Collie cross Joey.

In fact, poor old Joey can't even look forward to chasing the neighbourhood cat or wolfing down a tin of meaty dog food because he's allergic to almost everything.

The hapless pooch has to survive on a diet of potatoes and porridge because eating anything else causes him to break out in a painful skin rash.

Joey's owners – Lisa McCormack and Scott Muirhead, from Hamilton in Scotland – can't even risk taking him out on long walks through grassy fields or let him enjoy a dip in the river.

Mr Muirhead told reporters: "Joey was constantly breaking out in boils and sores and we were scratching our heads over why. He can't even chase a cat or he'll break out in a rash. We couldn't believe it."

After a year of expensive trips to the vet, Joey's owners forked out for a special blood test to check for allergies. "The results said it all and our local vet was baffled," said Mr Muirhead. "They had never seen anything like it in a dog before."

The results showed the only foods Joey was not allergic to included potatoes, barley and oats. But his owners now hope a new type of antibiotic and specialised dog food will give long-suffering Joey a new lease of life.

Mrs McCormack explained: "He's coming around all right now and his skin condition is improving. We hope it continues and he can live life like a normal dog."

Day the town turned out to see the Queen

By DAN PHILLIPS

daniel.phillips@hertsessexnews.co.uk

IF you've gone to all the trouble and effort of doing up your home then the first thing you'll want to do is welcome some guests to take a look around.

So when the property in question is not just one building but an entire new town centre, then the guests need to be just a little bit special.

When The High – the country's first pedestrianised shopping area – was built in the 1950s to replace The Stow as Harlow's number one shopping destination, the guests of honour were very special indeed – The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh.

Her Majesty and His Royal Highness visited the town in October 1957 and were greeted by a sea of smiling faces and flapping flags.

The Royal couple were chaperoned around The High and shown around Moot House by Sir Richard Costain, chairman of the Harlow development Corporation, but we are not totally sure of the reason for the visit or what else they saw.

No doubt they gave the gleaming new town centre the Royal seal of approval.

The pictures were taken from the Archive Photographs Series, compiled by George Taylor. The book contains a fascinating collection of some 200 pictures of life in Harlow through the decades.

● If you have any memories or pictures of that day, email them to daniel.phillips@hertsessexnews.co.uk or send them to Nostalgia, Harlow Star, 6 West Gate, Harlow CM20 1JW.

NOSTALGIA UPDATE: Burnt Mill station

THIS week we have been sent another picture of Burnt Mill rail station, this time by Harlow resident John Forster. The photograph shows a steam engine approaching from the Roydon end of the station.

If you look closely, there is an extra point of interest. To the left in the picture, in the distance, are the first signs of the new town springing up in the Essex countryside.

This dates the photograph to the mid-to-late 1950s, before the small Burnt Mill station was demolished to make way for the new and bigger Harlow Town station.

Plan for plastic windows

If Harlow Council decides to replace timber windows with PVC in all its housing stock it could mean 30 years work for a factory in the town. A report suggested the council could set up its own plant to produce new windows for 4,000 homes a year.

Factory hit by explosion

A chemical explosion hit the Linpac Packaging Company in Pegrams Road. Night staff rushed to the scene of the explosion where it appeared vandals had opened the valves of three 40-gallon drums of inflammable solvent, igniting the liquid.

Returning home in style

New mum Paula Robinson was given a surprise lift home from hospital in a Rolls Royce after giving birth to baby Roxanne. Husband Dave, of Primrose Field, borrowed the car for the journey.

Chorus heads off to Italy

Harlow Chorus will tour Italy for a week. They will sing in Rome, Verona, Padua and Genoa on the invitation of The Orchestra da Camera di Padova. They will also celebrate the centenary of Handel's birth with a performance at Thaxted Church.

People's views change

SIR, I feel I have to write and take Nick Gunning and Mike Danvers to task over their nasty personal letters attacking councillor Linda Pailing (Letters, February 11).

Neither of them knows what Linda does and has done for her residents in Netteswell. As her ward colleague in Netteswell, I do. As well as a ward colleague, I've been vice-chairman to Linda's chairmanship of the council's scrutiny committee so we've worked very closely for nearly two years.

I know it is difficult for Labour activists to understand that not every politician comes out of the womb with a rosette pinned to their nipple for them to live their entire lives by but actually that is rarely the case. That's why elections take place and results change – because people change their minds about who they think is best to represent them.

This is similarly true for politicians. Sometimes their attitudes change, their ideas of what they feel is right change and sometimes they feel their parties change policies and leave them.

Personally I am filled with awe at anyone who takes the decision to change their political allegiances. It must be hard to know they risk the wrath of their electorate and put at risk long-standing friendships.

Are Nick and Mike suggesting Linda stands down and leaves Netteswell a councillor down until May 6? The only people losing out then would be the residents of Netteswell.

As for their principled stance, did they ask for Derek Eardley and John Hocking to stand down when they left the Liberal Democrats to join Labour? Did they ask Lorna Spenceley to resign when she left Harlow to move to Ely? Did they demand of Labour nationally that MPs Quentin Davies and Shaun Woodward stand down when they joined the Labour Party from the Conservatives? I suspect the answer was no to all these questions.

If a zero council tax rise is trying to buy the election, why did the Labour group's amendment on Thursday only try to change 0.24 per cent of the £42m council budget for next year? Why did Labour not recommend raising it by that 0.24%? The fact is, Conservatives try to reduce the tax burden while Labour try to raise it as high as they can get away with!

And if the jump from Liberal Democrat to Conservative is so big, why was the Liberal Democrat budget amendment only 0.8 per cent of the council budget? Sounds to me like they agree 99.2 per cent with the Conservatives.

Councillor Mark R.E.Gough
 Gileblands, Harlow

Move will backfire

SIR, I read with interest Nick Gunning's letter about Linda Pailing.

Firstly to the specific questions at the end of his letter as to whether Councillor Pailing stands for privatising the Town Show, cutting environmental services, increasing service charges, removing support for organisations which help the old and vulnerable, the answer is yes. Her public initiation as a Tory councillor was to stand at last week's council budget meeting and read out a carefully prepared statement saying just that.

Secondly to his question "in which of her campaign speeches or literature did she express her admiration for Mr Halfon?", I and my fellow Liberal Democrats give the unequivocal answer: none.

However, the main thrust of Mr Gunning's letter is that her "principled position would be to resign and to stand for re-election on her real beliefs". On this point I fear that Mr Gunning has misread the craft both of Councillor Pailing and of the Harlow Conservative Party.

Voters in Netteswell ward, which Councillor Pailing represents and where Mr Gunning lives, need to be made aware of two things: firstly, that in the last district elections the sitting Liberal Democrat councillor lost his seat – albeit narrowly – to the Conservative contender and, secondly, that in little more than two month's time it would be Councillor Pailing's turn for re-election.

Harlow Conservatives have not yet announced their candidate for election in Netteswell on May 6. May we take out a book on who that might be? And may we make a guess as to Councillor Pailing's true reason for crossing the floor just at this time?

Tories spurned the chance to give us something back

SIR, There was much talk about a lack of clarity at Harlow Council's budget setting meeting on Thursday but certain things were clear. By asking councillor Linda Pailing – the Tories' latest acquisition – to respond to the opposition proposals one thing was clear for this town – if you vote Liberal Democrat you get Tories, such is their ideological shallowness.

So much for Harlow's Conservative council's recently professed adoration and pride for our town when they remove all notion of community from their corporate plan and offer up a 0% council tax budget in return for what? Precisely nothing!

Conservative leader Andrew Johnson expresses his adoration of the town by describing it as "grey, old, tired and worn out" and comes up with the inspirational solution to the town's problems – if you want something done tomorrow you can of course pay for it. So much for any sense of equality or fairness.

Once again we see clearly what the Tory mantra is: if you can't pay for it, you can't have it. The Tories celebrate low rent rises without answering why they did not pass on rent reductions last year and why they will not do so this year.

Meanwhile, Robert Halfon crusades for Harlow housing for Harlow people by spreading ignorance of the fact that 98 per cent council housing is already allocated to Harlow residents, with the remaining two per cent reserved for victims of domestic abuse and key workers. Simultaneously, he opposes the building of new houses for Harlow to the north of the town without indicating where they should go.

And together with his councillor colleagues he bemoans the state of Harlow's roads without any acknowledgement that much of this falls to the maladministration of Essex County Council.

Harlow's Conservatives rejected the opportunity to give a little back to all Harlow residents. They rejected proposals to reinstate free car parking in our neighbourhood shopping centres, they rejected retaining the free collection of bulky waste, they rejected retaining and increasing support for the advice centre and our voluntary groups, they rejected keeping the Town Show and they rejected reinstating the free removal of rat infestations in Harlow.

Perhaps Mr Halfon's next publicity stunt will be to parade around the wheellie bins in Harlow as the Pied Piper. But the truth is that the people of this town know how to get rid of the rats – it will be done through the ballot box at the next election.

Ian Beckett, chair Harlow Labour Party
 Market House, Harlow

If that is so, they have badly miscalculated. Her cynical move will be seen for what it really is and Harlow's Tories will be even more likely to fail with her as their candidate than they would have been without.

Nick Macy
 Riverside Court, Cambridge Road, Harlow

We want honesty

SIR, Through my daily paper I am aware that 22 Members of Parliament have to repay expenses above my annual income. Through the Star I am aware the British National Party intend to put up a candidate in Harlow at the General Election.

This means that four candidates are not likely to gain my vote. I am also aware that other people are thinking on similar grounds. Who can we trust?

All we want is honest people to speak and act for us when necessary, not to feather their own nest because the opportunity of privilege is open to them.

I fear more extremists may try to get in, too. All three main parties seem to stick to the party line so rigidly – if only they were more independent.

A. Buckman
 address supplied – Editor

Abscess on society

SIR, Bill Rammell claims to abhor the policies of the BNP but clearly is very happy to support policies that turn a blind eye to the racist thugs who preach hatred in mosques and make outraged noise about the BNP because they are white racists.

Robert Halfon predictably takes the opportunity to air a view on the subject, too, but at least he does hint at the reason why the BNP have a certain appeal to some.

Racial and religion based hatred is an abscess on any society and it should be lanced without discrimination. That includes the zealots who are freely allowed to carry placards proclaiming our soldiers in Afghanistan to be child murderers who should be killed.

An even hand, given time, might well see the BNP sliding back into the gutter from whence it came.

Mike Audritt
 Hobbs Cross Road, Harlow

Unjustified expense

SIR, I read with interest the article about the budget proposals from the Conservative administration but what interested me further was the comment from leader Andrew Johnson on the council website stating that it "really puts residents first".

If this is so then maybe he can explain then why hidden in the budget detail is the proposal to close Aelfeva House at The Briars and return it to general needs housing. This is an ex-council bungalow which is used by local residents for meetings and for community based projects.

The bungalow, which had been earmarked for demolition, was given over for such use after residents rejected a council proposal for a purpose built community building at a cost of £110,000 back in the early 1990s. The money saved was then used on other estates in Harlow.

The building has been modified, had internal walls removed, fire safety measures installed and has a covered seating area in the garden. The cost of works needed to return this to housing stock will be considerably more than the £2,560 saving identified in the proposed budget.

Given the uncertain future of properties in The Briars – it is one of the council's priority estates for regeneration – how could such an expense be justified and all for a saving of less than £3,000?

Yes Councillor Johnson, your budget really is one that puts residents first!

Su Lawton
 The Briars, Harlow

History in the making

SIR, Aran Black says he was making the point that Harlow does not have a rich heritage to preserve (Letters, February 4).

It would seem he has not visited the east side of our town. Here in Old Harlow the restaurant in Fore Street goes back to the 15th century and Market Street has buildings from late mediaeval onwards.

Ground floors are concealed by shop fronts but the High Street has buildings of some antiquity. Mulberry Green's oldest building is 17th century while buildings in Churchgate Street date back to the early 16th century. There are also ancient churches, the Romano-British Temple and Harlowbury.

"New" Harlow was the first realisation of the ideals of post-war construction. Some of its features have proved unsatisfactory but, as the pioneer of the new town concept, most of "new" Harlow is itself history.

We also take over the responsibility for paying the Funeral Directors and house Utility Bills and liaising directly with solicitors and estate agents should there be a house that must be sold.

There is no need for you to complete forms or attend Probate Offices. This leaves you the time to arrange the funeral and contact family and friends.

Drugs firm shake-up could cost 1,000 jobs

firm seems to have completely forgotten about the hundreds of ancillary staff employed here. "Without the hard work we put in the site could not even function. The company's attitude towards us is just plain insulting."

Another said that while scientists and researchers employed directly by GSK were offered attractive redundancy packages, ancillary staff had been "thrown to the gutter".

"The way we've been treated is disgusting," he said. "The firm is happy to throw us to the gutter while the scientists have either been offered decent redundancy packages or redeployed."

"This is going to be devastating for Harlow's economy. There will be another 1,000 people waiting in line at the Jobcentre."

"This is another case of a big firm putting profits ahead of people, something that is becoming worryingly commonplace in the pharmaceuticals industry."

A GSK spokeswoman this week confirmed the company was looking to "downsize" its Harlow operation but declined to comment on speculation over the total number of staff facing redundancy.

"Although there are proposals to downsize the Harlow site, we are by no means saying that GlaxoSmithKline is pulling out of the town," she said.

"With regards to redundancies, I can say that total job losses across our UK sites are likely to run into the hundreds."

"This figure does not factor in the number of ancillary staff not directly employed by GSK who may also be affected by the proposals."

Breast cancer unit now one of best performers

THE breast cancer unit at St Margaret's Hospital in Epping has been given a clean bill of health by NHS inspectors as it prepares to serve the needs of a new group of women who will soon be eligible for breast screening.

The Breast Unit was recently inspected by the East of England Breast Cancer Screening Quality Assurance team, who rated it as one of the best performing units in the region.

The resurgence of the facility sits in sharp contrast to its poor performance five years ago, when it was closed down for 12 months following a damning report from the same agency.

Its closure resulted in a huge backlog of women waiting for their three yearly mammograms, but the service now sees 72 per cent of the 36,000 eligible females in west Essex take up the invitation for the routine screening.

Unit manager Janet Skeys said: "Any woman with breast symptoms who are referred to the unit by their GPs is seen within two weeks while our breast screening service is now performing at full strength as we gear ourselves up for a lot more work."

"In the next 12 months we will be expanding the service as the age group for eligible women for breast screening is being 'stretched' from the ages of 47 to 73 which will increase our workload by 41 per cent."

Death of market stalwart

A STALLHOLDER and former chairman of Harlow Market Traders Association has died at the age of 87.

John Bowers and his wife, Elsie, were popular stallholders at Harlow's town centre market from 1961 and 1985.

They ran a flower, fruit and vegetable stall situated near the Post Office.

During Mr Bowers' tenure as association chairman the market thrived with around 100 stallholders.

During the Second World War he served with the 1st British Infantry Division in North Africa and Sicily and was among the first Allied troops to arrive in Rome and Florence.

Both Mr and Mrs Bowers were life-long Labour Party members and supporters.

He passed away on Wednesday, February 3.

To guide you through the week ahead

Aries Mar 21-Apr 20
 Whilst you often project a hustle-bustle image, you have insecurities like the rest of us. And the goodness of those people who are reliable, faithful and trustworthy, really can strike home. However, equally, you may need to become more aware of any outstanding emotional debris that may be floating around inside of you. Give this some priority. Call me for your in-depth forecast...

Taurus Apr 21-May 21
 If you are someone who loves to social network, then the next month can be a particularly positive time, one where many new contacts can be made. But equally you can get to know the new people down the street or join a local business club or spend more time going out, having fun. It really is a case of the more the merrier. Seize the chance Taurus. Call your prediction line for more advice...

Gemini May 22-Jun 21
 Business, financial and career issues come to the fore. If you want to make progress, your desire to enjoy a breakthrough can be high. This can also see you go that extra mile in competitive situations. Don't be a shrinking violet, for there will be others chasing the same opportunities. Show what you are made of. Polish your CV and interview techniques. Call now for more news...

Cancer Jun 22-Jul 23
 You have a reputation of being a home lover. While this can be true of you, there is very many more dimensions to you and these interests and skills are ripe for exploring. Talking of which you can find yourself keen to travel or actually on the move. A partnership which is enriching can also grow in importance. Yet ordinary routines may seem a little dull. Call for your love scope in full...

Leo Jul 24-Aug 23
 It may not be like you stand off at least generally, to make snap decisions, but you may make a few over the coming weeks. This is because the stars are encouraging you to follow your hunches, rather than use quite as much logic. That more fiery side of your nature has a chance to flourish, but some of your moves may amaze yourself, let alone anyone else. Call for more news and astral advice...

Virgo Aug 24-Sept 23
 Been engaged in a stubborn stand-off or finding one person hard to get along with? Hope beckons. However, this doesn't mean that all the concessions will be made by them - you may need to compromise too. This may also require someone to make the first move. Will you have the courage? Don't expect instant results, but things can improve. Call now for more astral advice...

Libra Sept 24-Oct 23
 A change of emphasis has been quietly but powerfully building up in the background of your situation, now it really takes root. This can see you grappling with practical issues, such as where to live, how to live there and who with. Creating extra space or getting a little trimmer can also feature. A chance of a new job or better relations can also develop. Call me for more advice...

Scorpio Oct 24-Nov 22
 If you've been feeling becalmed or completely washed out, a welcome return to form presents itself this week. In fact you could surprise yourself how quickly you switch gear and feel more outgoing and sociable. As much as you may have desired this of late, finding the energy may have been harder going. Wherever possible, now look to enjoy yourself. Call for more astral advice...

Sagittarius Nov 23-Dec 21
 Sometimes we need to rest up and take stock. Finding our bearings like this can be very positive. Life can be better-skelter busier and if you have been running to stand still, now is your time to have a breather. This may mean turning down a few invites, spending time with close family and friends or alone, but this can prove to be worthwhile Archer. Call your prediction line for more news...

Capricorn Dec 22-Jan 20
 You can sparkle in any social situation. Your quick wits and sharp mind can make you seriously stimulating company to be with. Okay, I know what's new! But all your natural qualities are ramped up to a new high. Yet you may not suffer fools gladly, and may have to guard against making superficial judgements but you can be awesomely persuasive. Call me now for more...

Aquarius Jan 21-Feb 19
 You can be fiercely tenacious, a quality driven by Saturn. And when you are in for the long haul, you can be a real "sticker", way beyond when others would have quit at the first hurdle. And something you've been beavering away towards for many, many Moons can finally show real signs of improvement this week. Such rewards can prove so satisfying. Call now for more news...

Pisces Feb 20-Mar 20
 This is a powerful week. A time when you get the cosmic green light to power your hopes and plans forwards. You will be feeling much more self-willed and determined, which is sometimes important. Whilst that doesn't mean you should ignore others, don't expect everybody to automatically fall in behind you. No-one is an island, and especially not you. Call for more...

>>TONIGHT Another night of the finest new music and another close-run battle for the most ridiculous band name imaginable. Taking the crown this week has to be Mammoth Mommoth, although Teeth & Tusks, Neurological Disaster and Bang Bangs all acquit themselves admirably. Doors open at 8pm and tickets cost £4 (free for members).

>>FRIDAY Harlow's musical youth get the chance to say it live and loud when the talented bunch from the Rock School take to the stage to show the oldies how it's done. Doors are at 8pm and tickets cost £6 (£5 members).

>>SATURDAY Rabble-rousing guttersnipes Dogs bring their anthemic post-punk polemics to Harlow. Having cut their teeth touring with the likes of Paul Weller, The Enemy and, er, Razorlight, the lads are back on the road promoting self-produced new EP We Are The Dogs. Support comes from Hertfordshire jitter-punks Rotating Leslie and electro-blues outfit Bibelots. Doors open at 8pm and tickets cost £7 (£6 members).

Going Dutch for a trip to the circus

THINK of Holland and you will probably conjure up pictures of clogs, tulips and windmills.

But probably one thing that won't spring to mind about the Dutch is their appreciation of what for many is seen as a distinctly British tradition – the circus.

Yet the Netherlands National Circus claims to have been the pride of the lowlands since it was established in 1948. And next month Harlow residents will be able to see for themselves what all the fuss is about.

Touring under an all-purpose Big Top, the all-human circus will roll into the Town Park on March 1 for a week-long residency.

Featuring theatre-standard public facilities and a line-up of top performers from across the globe, the circus prides itself on its innovative routines and competitive prices.

By CHRIS MOSS

chris.moss@hertssexnews.co.uk

"It's marvellous to be on tour here in Harlow with such a special show," a circus spokesman told the Star.

"This circus is from Holland but the idea of circus performance was a British invention and as such is close to people's hearts all over the UK."

"We're also helping families fight back against the increasing cost of living. Our seat prices are competitive and travel costs are low because we come to you!"

Among the travelling troupe's top attractions are, pictured above, the Russian Bugrovi Sisters, high-flying acrobats the Tersky Brothers, mystifying illusionist Ross Presto and a breathtaking solo trapeze act from Mongolian superstar Khishigjargal Batjargal.

"We are presenting an all-human production with a full cast of world class artistes and showcasing amazing stage lighting, accompanying sound system and atmospheric effects," said the spokesman. "You will be ensured a show of breathtaking thrills and excitement!" Standard tickets for the show cost £5.99 each (prices for ringside seats vary). For more information or to book seats, call (0844) 415 5228.

● To win one of 15 sets of family tickets (2 adults and 3 children) to the circus, email the answer to the following question – In what year was the Netherlands National Circus established? – to star@hertssexnews.co.uk. Please remember to include your name, address and daytime telephone number. The deadline for entries is Wednesday, February 24.

Getting to grips with the grapplers

THIS young fight fan dared take on the might of man-mountain Tiny Iron in a bid to win tickets to tomorrow's (Friday) Thunderslam wrestling extravaganza at The Playhouse.

The youngster was one of three fearless fans who battled the giant wrestler in an arm wrestling competition to secure their ringside seats for the theatre's half-term treat.

Tiny was joined by fellow grappler The Rage in Harlow's Harvey Centre to spread the word about the dazzling new show – a theatrical blend of no-holds-barred wrestling, slapstick comedy and dancing girls. The show features bouts between some of the best-known professional wrestlers on the UK circuit interspersed with cabaret-style performances by the Thunderslam dancers and video cut-scenes of backstage action.

It is produced by Phoenix Theatre School principal Phil Dale, who also plays the part of scheming wrestling promoter PJ.

"The mix of live wrestling, theatrical elements and big-screen video action really needs to be seen to be believed," he said.

Thunderslam takes place in The Playhouse's main auditorium tomorrow (Friday) night at 8pm. Tickets cost £14 (£12 concessions) and can be purchased from the theatre's box office on (01279) 431945.

>>CHILDREN

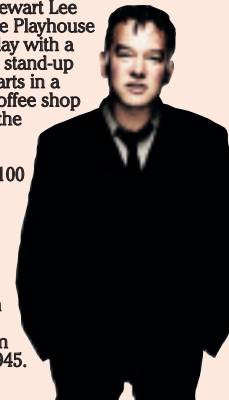

Join swivel-hipped host Pete Hillier at The Playhouse this afternoon (Thursday) for a fun-packed stage adaptation of his Bafta award-winning CBBC show Boogie Beebies. Pete will show off some of his trademark dance moves and perform breathtaking magic tricks, while young members of the audience will be invited to join in with songs from the hit TV show including Go Go Mango, Hey Monkey and Ocean Motion. The show starts at 2pm and tickets cost £7.50 (£6 concessions) from (01279) 431945.

>>MUSIC Dust off your platform shoes and squeeze into your loon pants – Abba: The Show will bring out the Dancing Queen in you when it hits the Playhouse stage on Saturday. Top UK showgroup Barry Walker's Smackee present a dazzling two-hour tribute to the Swedish pop heroes featuring extravagant costume changes, luxurious facial hair and impossibly short skirts. The concert begins at 8pm and tickets cost £15 from (01279) 431945.

>>MUSIC Another day at The Playhouse and another performance by Barry Walker's Smackee. This time it's Memories Are Made Of Hits which brings together the unforgettable music and artistes of the 1950s and early '60s for a nostalgic trip back to the glory days of the hit parade. Featuring the likes of Judy Garland, Doris Day, Buddy Holly, The Shadows and Burt Bacharach among others, this is a show guaranteed to have you singing along. Sunday's performance starts at 3pm and tickets cost £12 from (01279) 431945.

>>COMEDY Irascible, irreverent and irresponsibly hilarious, acclaimed comedian Stewart Lee comes to The Playhouse on Wednesday with a brilliant new stand-up show that starts in a high street coffee shop and ends at the bottom of a glass of pear cider that is 100 per cent disappointment. Refreshingly cliché-free, the show starts at 8pm and tickets cost £15 from (01279) 431945.

Special effects are a Bone of contention

>>>still on screen

>>>PERCY JACKSON & THE LIGHTNING THIEF Chris Columbus directs the big-screen big budget version of the first of five books by Rick Riordan. High school student Percy Jackson (Logan Lerman) embarks on a quest to the underworld when discovers he is the son of Poseidon (Kevin McKidd). Columbus doesn't let the effects overwhelm the storytelling, although it's more of a stretch than a squeeze to fill the rollicking two hours.

>>>VALENTINE'S DAY Julia Roberts, Jessica Alba, Bradley Cooper, Jamie Foxx, Jennifer Garner, Anne Hathaway, Ashton Kutcher and Shirley MaLaine are among the stars in Gary Marshall's sugar-coated tale of romance and heartbreak in Los Angeles. Marshall's film runs the risk of being little more than cinematic candy floss, however, there are some big laughs and eye-catching performances from a stellar cast, who appear to be having a ball.

>>>THE PRINCESS AND THE FROG Disney breaks with tradition and casts its first ever African-American princess in this enchanting reworking of the Grimm brothers' fairytale, set in New Orleans around the time of the First World War. Tiana (voiced by Anika Noni Rose) is turned into a frog after kissing a smooth-talking amphibian, and has to embark on a perilous quest to get herself turned back into a human.

>>>THE WOLFMAN Almost 70 years after the original film was made, the furry beast runs free again in director Joe Johnston's remake, starring Benicio Del Toro, Emily Blunt and Sir Anthony Hopkins. A man (Del Toro) returns to his homeland to help search for his missing brother but becomes embroiled in a horrifying mystery that has haunted the village of Blackmoor.

>>>SHERLOCK HOLMES Guy Ritchie's reinvention of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's legendary sleuth stars Robert Downey Jr and Jude Law as Sherlock Holmes and his sidekick Dr John Watson on the trail of a killer who comes back from the dead.

>>>AVATAR (3D) Winner of two Golden Globes, James Cameron's special effects-laden blockbuster pushes the boundaries of big-screen technology.

>>>ASTRO BOY The iconic figure of Astro Boy takes flight in a new computer-animated adventure directed by David Bowers, with a storyline that puts a futuristic spin on the classic tale of Pinocchio.

>>>WHERE THE WILD THINGS ARE Director Wes Anderson brings his offbeat and distinctly adult sensibilities to bear on Roald Dahl's classic children's story, with lead voices from George Clooney and Meryl Streep. The stop-motion animation is visually impressive but it's a film you admire and marvel at rather than unreservedly love.

cornfield and traces of the girl's blood. The teenager's father, Jack (Mark Wahlberg), mother Abigail (Rachel Weisz) and booze-soaked grandmother Lynn (Susan Sarandon) are denied a chance to bury the child.

Jack sacrifices his marriage to embark on a tireless campaign to track down his daughter's killer, but there is no evidence, and the police grow tired of his theories.

Classmate Ruth Connors (Carolyn Dando) is touched by Susie's spirit and could perhaps provide that vital link between life and death.

Meanwhile, George watches the Salmons closely from his home across the street, fixating on Susie's sister, Lindsey (Rose McIver).

Jackson's screenplay, co-written with wife Fran Walsh and Philippa Boyens, is caught in its own limbo, unable to bridge the narrative divide between the corporeal and ethereal planes where the story unfolds.

A miasma of computer-generated special effects in the otherworldly sections, courtesy of the digital wizards at WETA, is distracting and we yearn for a speedy return to the drabness of reality.

The Lovely Bones is also hamstrung by Wahlberg's inability to convey a single genuine emotion. He wrings crocodile tears in vain and tries to make us care about his patriarch's quest for vengeance.

On terra firma, we latch onto McIver, who breaks into George's house to seek clues just as he returns home in the film's nerve-shredding, standout sequence.

We are equally mesmerised by Tucci, who inhabits his role completely, and feel a chill down the back of our spines every time his soulless eyes bore into the camera.

THERE is life after death in Peter Jackson's visually stunning interpretation of the bestseller by Alice Sebold, which proves to be one adaptation too far for the Oscar-winning director of The Lord Of The Rings trilogy and King Kong. Cutting back and forth between the real world and a colour-saturated heavenly limbo, The Lovely Bones details the efforts of a murdered 14-year-old schoolgirl to help her grieving father apprehend her killer from beyond the grave.

In doing so, the girl's tortured spirit can attain lasting peace, along with the murderer's other victims.

On her way home from school in early December 1973, Susie Salmon (Saoirse Ronan) is lured to her death by neighbour George Harvey (Stanley Tucci), who dismembers the girl and hides her remains in a cast iron safe in his basement.

Detective Len Fennerman (Michael Imperioli) and his colleagues never find Susie, just her woollen hat in a

MICHAEL J Bassett writes and directs this historical action adventure based on the character created by Robert E Howard.

In the battle for England's glory in the 16th century, Solomon Kane (James Purefoy) and his men leave nothing but death and destruction in their wake. Merciless and utterly unstoppable, these warriors cut a swathe through all enemies led by Solomon and his trademark pistols, cutlass and rapier.

During an expedition in northern Africa, Solomon storms a castle seeking treasure, only to see his men slain one by one by demonic creatures. The Reaper comes for Solomon to claim his soul, and the only way to escape this hellish fate is for Solomon to renounce violence and his sins.

Returning to England, Solomon befriends a Puritan, William Crowthorn (Pete Postlethwaite) and his family, and grows especially fond of daughter Meredith (Rachel Hurd-Wood).

When an evil overlord and his hordes kill the family and capture Meredith, Solomon risks his soul by returning to his old, bloodthirsty ways to launch a daring rescue mission.

SX4 punches above its weight

The SX4 is a cross between a small hatchback and a mini SUV. The raised driving position, lofty stance and spacious cabin all make the car quite unique. IAN DOOLEY takes it for a test drive

If you want to get ahead in the car business, small is the biggest game in town. Superminis, compact hatchbacks, call them what you want; the small car sector is the one to be in.

The trade off is that there's little in the way of genuine variety. Style-wise there's much to differentiate one supermini from the next, but at the end of the day you're still driving a supermini.

And if you want a small car with a bit of attitude or go-anywhere ability it's a case of getting something bigger.

Which is why cars like Suzuki's SX4 have managed to carve out a successful niche for themselves. Presenting a noticeably more rugged face to the world while managing to retain the same footprint as a conventional supermini, the SX4s of this world offer something a little different.

The SX4 is, if you like, a cross between a small hatchback and a mini SUV. All the tell-tale clues are present: the high roofline, raised driving position, chunky styling and all-wheel drive. This latter feature might only present on one variant, but for anyone with a need for such it sure beats having to manhandle something larger on country lanes.

First let's consider the front-wheel drive SX4 which is more than just a soft-roader for the city. The raised driving position, lofty stance and spacious cabin all make perfect sense in the city where visibility is often at a premium and getting down into and up out of a regular car can be a chore – and a genuine pain for some.

With the ease of use box ticked, next consider the car's performance. There's a straight-forward choice between a thoroughly revised 120 horsepower 1.6-petrol unit and a 90 horsepower 1.6-litre diesel. If you plan on racking up the miles, the diesel probably the better option.

For more urban-centric motoring the petrol unit is an excellent all-rounder.

Improved performance, economy and refinement have made it a more rounded proposition now, and it's also the engine used in the all-wheel drive SX4.

Now, this might appear like overkill, but there's a lot to be said for all-weather ability. You don't have to be stuck in snow to reap the benefit, as even wet, leaf-strewn roads have the potential to cause a problem. Also, if you happen to live or travel in rural areas, something small and economical like the SX4 can make more sense than a bulky, traditional 4x4.

And the SX4 in all-wheel drive SZ5 trim is so easy to live with. A simple rocker switch activates the 4x4 mode, giving you the option of on-demand all-wheel drive when you lose traction, full 4x4 lock and a front-drive mode.

A genuinely versatile, practical and easy to drive car, Suzuki's SX4 might appear to be a left-field choice in the supermini sector, but the more you examine it the more it makes sense. You don't need to live at the top of a mountain to make the most of it, while it feels just at home on the motorway as it does bounding along muddy country paths.

By way of a deal-breaker, for 2010 Suzuki has spruced up the car's interior, improved equipment levels and polished the car's exterior by way of more colour-coded trim.

For the asking price, this is a small car the genuinely punches above its weight.

Cheshunt Motor Company

CMC opens branch in Harlow

The Cheshunt Motor Company (CMC) has shunned the ongoing recession and opened a new, rebranded showroom in Edinburgh Way, Harlow.

The family-run company started in Cheshunt almost 25 years ago and following great success, decided an additional site was the next natural step for the business. The newly rebranded CMC showroom opened in Harlow on September 1 with Hyundai and now also has a great range of popular Seat models available.

Managing director Paul Holmes said: "Edinburgh Way is such a great location, the best in Harlow, and it has been a long-held dream of mine to get a showroom there.

You get a lot of exposure, all the competition is there and our products need to be in front of it."

Staffed by experienced and highly trained sales team, the new showroom has ample space to display 14 cars as well as a dedicated area where customers can enjoy a freshly brewed cup of coffee and watch TV. Meanwhile, out back, a team of skilled manufacturer-trained technicians provide the perfect after sales service from a state-of-the-art, six-bay workshop, complete with high-tech MoT test lane. CMC is also helping to bring new employment to the area. Paul continued:

"We currently have 18 staff at our Cheshunt showroom and would eventually like a similar number in Harlow."

The company is also hoping to offer 40-50 used cars on the site in future months.

Since opening, things have been going very well for the company with 70 cars sold in the first month as a result of the Government scrappage scheme. Paul said: "Hyundai sold more scrap cars than anyone. The volumes have been crazy but it's a nice problem to have."

The premises will be fully operational from December 1 but new car orders are being taken now. Paul concluded: "If we can replicate the excellent reputation we have built at our dealership in Cheshunt by paying close attention to customer service and satisfaction in all areas of the business, then we know the new dealership will be an enormous success."

For more information contact the Harlow showroom on 01279 775900 or visit them on Edinburgh Way. Alternatively you can visit the CMC website at www.cheshuntmotor.co.uk

LOVE AT FIRST SIGHT

Was it the sporty air intake that first took your breath away? Or the 17" titanium alloys? Hard to say. All you know is that one look at the Ibiza range and it was love. And that was before you were whisked away by the FR's 150PS engine and 7-speed DSG. Before the Cupra's 180PS engine and Sport Suspension got your pulse racing. And who could blame you for staring longingly into the Bocanegra's chromed double front headlights? Some people think they'll never find true love in their lifetime. You can find it three times in one afternoon.

NEW CAR ROAD TEST Chevrolet Spark

Will the Spark fly?

THE burgeoning citycar market could be a happy hunting ground for Chevrolet and its Spark.

Having wowed motor show crowds with its hydrogen fuel cell-powered Volt, Chevrolet's attempt to grab a piece of the citycar action is called the Spark.

Don't expect too much by way of ground-breaking design or next-generation propulsion systems though. The Spark is far more traditional in its approach than its electrically charged colleague, the key advantage being that you can actually buy one.

Chevrolet's efforts to grow its profile in the UK market were hindered from the outset by its reliance on ex-Daewoo models. Trying to make the best of a cheap and not particularly cheerful model range that had already been intensively marketed proved challenging. Where the famous American brand has been able to put its own stamp on its products, the signs have been much more encouraging. The Captiva 4x4 and Cruze saloon both have something to be said for them and the Spark, a compact citycar with MPV tendencies that replaces the long-serving Matiz, is another model for which there are high hopes.

Spark customers don't get any pricey diesel options but they do have a couple of small petrol engines to choose from. The 1.0-litre unit develops 67bhp, and for more urgent performance there's an 80bhp 1.2-litre. These are modern powerplants with alloy cylinder heads, double overhead camshafts and four valves per cylinder. A multi-port fuel injection system works to optimise the combustion process, getting the maximum for each drop of unleaded. A five-speed manual gearbox comes as standard on all the Spark models.

The Spark is clearly designed for travel through the modern urban landscape with all its restrictions on available space.

It is 3.64m long and 1.597m wide, so it's less dinky than committed citycars like the smart fortwo or Toyota iQ, but on a par with other models like the Ford Ka and Citroën C1, which still attempt to offer a realistic four-person capacity with a usable boot.

There's a definite MPV aspect to the Spark's shape, with its flat sides and high roofline helping to make even more of the space available.

It's far from frumpy though, with huge headlights, a narrow glass area and a deep front bumper that curves around the car's nose, blending with the bulbous wheel arches. A jagged 'lightning bolt' line cut into the flank is the signature styling feature.

The cabin area has some engaging features, like the instrument cluster that sits on top of the steering column, which takes its design inspiration from that of a motorcycle.

Top-class safety credentials are a difficult thing to achieve in a small car; but the Spark's designers used a number of clever methods to get the results they were looking for. Various crumple zones have been incorporated into the design, there's a pedal retraction system to safeguard the feet of the driver in a front-end collision and an array of safety equipment includes six airbags.

The growth in the citycar sector has been fuelled in part by motorists downsizing out of larger vehicles in a bid to reduce their costs. This means that there's a growing expectation for small cars to be as well-equipped as larger ones and Chevrolet appears to have taken this on board. The entry-level Spark is clearly there to achieve an enticing opening price point and offers little more than the basics. The Spark + is likely to be more popular with air-conditioning, electric windows, central locking and a USB port for the four-speaker stereo, all for a modest price increase.

The LS grade is the next step up with body-coloured exterior appendages, a rear spoiler, front fog lights and remote central locking. Then comes the LS + which adds alloy wheels, a trip computer and yet more styling accessories. The range-topping LT is still under £10,000 and has a full bodykit, climate control and more extras to enhance the look and feel. These higher-spec Sparks really are well equipped by citycar standards and there are still options including rear parking sensors and ESP stability control to consider.

Small and economical looks like being the prevailing mantra for the car market and the Chevrolet Spark should be in with a shout.

GATES MAZDA URGES CUSTOMERS TO

'BUY NOW' BEFORE SCRAPPAGE SCHEME ENDS

The Government-backed Scrappage Scheme has already been great news for many consumers in Bishops Stortford who have been able to save at least £2,000 off the price of a brand new Mazda. However, with only limited funds now remaining, Gates Mazda is urging people in the area to 'buy now' and take advantage of the scheme quickly to avoid disappointment.

Welcoming this news, Adrian Barnes said "It is important that customers considering purchasing a Mazda through scrappage take advantage of the scheme sooner rather than later, as the final phase of the scheme is a smaller allocation of funds, and customers may be disappointed if they wait too long to make a purchase. We are advising motorists in Bishops Stortford and the surrounding areas to make the most of the offers on the table now.

"We have good stocks of our most popular Mazda models for customers wanting to take advantage of the scrappage scheme and can offer early delivery to our Stansted Road, Bishops Stortford showroom. Mazda has wholeheartedly embraced the Scrappage Scheme since April and offers even more added value for owners changing their 'old' model for a new Mazda," adds Adrian Barnes.

The Government has confirmed it will share out the remaining scrappage scheme budget allocation amongst car manufacturers based on their retail sales in 2009. "This really is the only fair way the Government could have divided up the remaining budget," commented Jeremy Thomson, Managing Director, Mazda Motors UK Ltd.

"It is good news for Mazda as we achieved the biggest retail share in our history last year. Based on our 2009 retail share and our forecast for 2010, we will get sufficient funding from the Government to satisfy our customers' needs for the balance of the scrappage scheme."

Can't scrap it? Swap it and bag £3k off a new Vauxhall

THE Government's 'scrappage' scheme may have almost run its course but today Vauxhall is set to offer customers an even more generous package, available on three of its most popular ranges. Vauxhall Swappage offers customers an even more tempting package than the existing Government-backed scheme, with at least £3,000 off all new Astras, Astra Sport Hatches and most new Corsa models in exchange for any roadworthy car they own which is at least seven years old. Unlike some rival manufacturers, Vauxhall is imposing no upper age limit on the car customers trade-in, although its minimum age requirement still matches the best offers on the market. And unlike the scrappage scheme, participating Vauxhall dealers will accept vehicles that have only been registered with the customer for 90 days and will allow a husband/wife to trade in their partner's car as long as they live at the same address.

That means that any seven-year-old UK-registered car with insurance, road tax and MOT – no matter what its value or condition – can be used as currency to reduce the cost of the 2010 Corsa 1.0 Energy 3-dr to just £8,925 and the recently-launched Astra 5-dr to as little as £12,995 for the Exclusiv 1.4 model.

Even bigger savings can be made by swapping your old car for the latest Astra Sport Hatch Sport 1.4, with its standard VXR styling pack, sports suspension and air conditioning. Swappage brings the cost of this model down by a remarkable £3,885 to just £12,995.

"We're determined that our customers won't be left short-changed when the Government's scrappage scheme comes to an end," said Rory Harvey, Vauxhall's retail sales director. "Vauxhall Swappage not only increases the amount of discount off selected Vauxhalls from £2,000 to at least £3,000 but it also widens the net to cars over seven years old, compared with 10 years plus in the old Government-backed scheme."

Vauxhall Swappage is available on all Corsa (excluding S & Exclusiv), new Astra and Astra Sport Hatch models ordered or registered between February 5 and March 31, 2010 at participating dealers, and cannot be used in conjunction with any other offers.

WITH more space, sleeker styling and improved driving dynamics, Vauxhall's sixth generation Astra is more accomplished than ever before.

Despite Vauxhall's best efforts over thirty years and five different generations, their Astra has rarely been the family hatchback its drivers would ideally have chosen to own. For this MK6 model, greater efforts than ever before have been made to ensure that 'want one' factor.

It's bigger, sharper to drive and nicer to sit in, while sleek styling makes this one of the most attractive cars in its class.

Back in the steam age, an inventor called James Watt invented a linkage system created to constrain the movement of a steam engine piston in a straight line. Over a century later, this Astra's engineers turned again to the same concept. When applied to a car's rear suspension, this Watts linkage reduces sideways motion between the axle and the body of the car in a way they claim is more space-efficient, lighter and adjustable than the multi-link rear suspensions used in the Focus or the Golf.

The fresh, contemporary, sculpted styling of this sixth generation

Vauxhall Astra
1.6 16v Turbo

Astra shrouds a body that's not only 43 per cent stiffer than before but also significantly larger.

Starting at the front, there's a dashboard that disgraces those of some compact executive BMW 3 Series-class cars along with features like the elegance of the dashboard design and little touches like the smart chromed rings around the dials and switches. Compared to some cars in this sector, a journey in this Astra is like being upgraded from economy to business class.

As for that increase in size, you notice it most back here on the rear seat. A fully-grown adult really can sit comfortably in the middle for decently long periods alongside passengers who'll appreciate the fact that you can slide your feet properly right under the seat in front.

It's possible to get the 1.6 16v Turbo engine in sporty SRI or plush SE trim. Both models of course get the basics like ESP stability control, air-conditioning, a CD stereo, while SRI is Vauxhall's mainstream sporty trim level and includes 17" alloy wheels with lowered sports suspension.

Astra pricing isn't quite as affordable as it has been in the past compared to rivals, with Vauxhall rightly assuming that it now has a product that can stand toe to toe with the sector's best in terms of quality.

Fuel economy of 41.5mpg on the combined cycle is better than we expected a 180PS petrol turbo model to produce, as is a CO2 emissions figure of 159g/km.

This 1.6-litre Turbo model further underlines the fact that this Astra must now be taken more seriously than ever before. It's good to drive and great to ride in, with a large, classy cabin that will sell this car to many, the standard having been raised far beyond what we've seen from Vauxhall in the past.

Proud as a Peacock

Meet the winter games supremo who taught boxing favourite Frank Bruno how to ski!

By ALAN SCOTT

THE man who taught boxing legend Frank Bruno to ski will be keeping his eyes firmly peeled on the Winter Olympics and Paralympics over the next month – and is tipping Great Britain to come home with a couple of medals!

Graham Peacock (77), of Burnett Park, Harlow, was made life vice-president of the British Paralympic Association (BPA) towards the end of last year.

He assumed the top title of Secretary General at the BPA for the Turin Winter Paralympics in 2006.

Having spearheaded the British Disabled Skiing team's efforts at various Winter Paralympics since France 1992, the GB team's efforts will be Peacock's main focus over the next month.

But of all his fantastic memories, the experience of teaching Bruno to ski at the now defunct Harlow Ski Slope is one Peacock recalls with fondness.

Former World Heavyweight Champion Bruno and his daughter Rachel wanted to learn to ski as they were going on a skiing holiday 12 years ago.

"I taught Frank Bruno to ski down there. He had a wonderful sense of balance," Peacock said.

When Graham's wife Verica innocently asked Bruno why he needed to take sun tan oil on the skiing trip, Bruno replied. "Of course I do – I don't want to get burnt!"

Peacock originally took up skiing in the early 1980s at the Harlow slope and developed such a flair that he was asked to become a ski instructor.

Skiers from as far as Scotland would come down to use the top practice venue.

Peacock was approached to take up a role instructing disabled skiers by Mike Hammond, then manager of the centre which used to be next to Harlow Town Football Club's old ground off Hammarskjöld Road – and is now a housing development.

From this experience, he

was invited to work with the British Disabled Skiing team, which provided a platform for him to join the BPA.

Peacock, who has lived in the Harlow district all his life, only started to ski after his daughter fell ill in 1980 and relatives invited the family to Switzerland as part of her recuperation.

Having never skied before, Graham took to the experience like the proverbial duck to water and the rest is history, as he became involved with various British disabled sport associations over the next 20 years and was manager of the British Disabled Skiing Team for 13 years until 2002.

Peacock has even skied with royalty, including HRH Prince Edward, who is patron of the BPA.

Ex-Paralympics chief's shock at luge death

BRITISH Paralympic Association life-president Graham Peacock was horrified at the luge death of Georgian Nodar Kumaritashvili at the Winter Olympics.

Peacock, from Harlow, said: "It's very sad when any sportsman is killed. It surprised me that it should have happened. They have made corrections to the course.

"I was there when a Scottish skier who won bronze at Salt Lake City [2002] was taken in on a doping charge. He had his medal taken away. It was terrible. When something like this happens it hits everybody in the Olympic or Paralympic village." There will be no luge event at the Winter Paralympics starting in Vancouver on March 12.

This will be the first time Peacock – the BPA's former Secretary General – has missed a games since 1992.

"I will be glued to the television over the next month," confessed Peacock who is disappointed to miss the events unfold live in Vancouver, Canada. "There was strict allocation and I was surplus. It's a shame because they are wonderful events. I have been to all the Winter Paralympics since 1992."

Peacock was asked to become a life vice-president of the BPA, just weeks after he announced he was retiring in November.

This new role meant he was invited up to Edinburgh Castle in Scotland last month when the GB team was officially announced for the Winter Paralympics in Canada.

At this function, he told paraplegic skier Sean Rose that he expects him to return with nothing less than a gold medal! Rose won a gold medal in the paraplegic skiing at the World Cup in January.

"The paraplegic skiers will mono-ski – they use a bucket on one ski and they hit 60 or 70 miles an hour," Peacock explained. "Can you imagine how fast they are going when they hit the ground? It's frightening watching it, let alone sitting in it."

Peacock also has high hopes for the disabled curling team. They gained the silver medal at the last Winter Paralympics in Turin, Italy, and the Harlow pensioner is tipping them to go one better this time.

"They missed the gold medal by a fraction of an inch with their last stone [in Turin]," he said. "We have got very good curlers. I saw them practising in Edinburgh."

The able-bodied GB team could also spring a shock with a medal in the skiing. "Chemmy Alcott may surprise people. You've always got a chance in any sport – anything can happen," he said.

Mersea me! Rams need win after crushing loss

THE Rams face a must-win clash when they host Mersea Island this Saturday.

Harlow's subsequent five matches are all against top-half teams and two points against Mersea should be enough to make sure they won't go down this season.

Harlow dropped from seventh to ninth after losing heavily at Ipswich in a four-pointer.

The Suffolk side overtook the Rams, as did Enfield Ignatians following their victory over Chelmsford.

Ipswich's speedy backs were the determining factor against Harlow who were also handicapped by James McFerran going off with a shoulder injury.

The visitors also paid for having wingers Will Grimley, Dan Hockley and prop Paul Prindiville sin-binned for various misdemeanours on 39, 48 and 70 minutes respectively.

Rams director of rugby Lee Harron was forced to play at fly-half as Michael Dobson was ruled out with a broken nose sustained in the previous game.

Charlie Woodington took Harron's scrum-half slot.

Ipswich went ahead in the first five minutes when right wing Mark Broughton broke well to touch down.

Sam Corston converted as he did again a few minutes later when a handling error let Ryan Atkins in to score the hosts' second try.

Ipswich's lead was cut to 14-5 midway through the first half. Kain Claridge broke from a scrum 10m from the home line and passed to Woodington to dart over, before McFerran's conversion hit a post and came out.

Shortly before the break a slick Ipswich move led to Dan Fell touching down and the Suffolk side led 19-5 at the break.

Harlow's fate was sealed by home tries on 41 and 50 minutes. The second was converted by Corston.

Ipswich's pace led to Tim Hopkins touching down before a forwards' move saw Alex Primmer score.

Hopkins broke to score a try on 70 minutes.

Shortly before the end, a Harlow pass was intercepted by David Pulemgafa who broke before passing to Iona Latu to score.

Jonathan Fell kicked the final conversion.

Rams lock Paul Eynon said: "Ipswich were much stronger than when we played them at home and beat them. They were very good in the backs. We have the quality to beat Mersea and reverse the defeat we had there."

HARLOW: Brown, Hockley, McFerran (O'Brien 50), Bowering, Grimley, Harron, Woodington, Branch, (2) Romaine (C), Prindiville, Eynon, Palmer (Blackwell 66), Roberts (Lane 69), Bowering, Claridge.

Table-toppers keep up great run with victory

HARLOW Rugby Club's U-15 team continued their strong Essex League form when they overcame a plucky Stockwood Park U-15 side 55-5.

The Rams, who lead their division, played good 15-man rugby on Sunday.

They scored four first-half tries and all were converted by Jack Davies.

Number eight Dominic Lane and centre Jack Alger touched down for the first two home scores.

The visitors rallied and their number eight scored a converted try.

An excellent try was then scored by Harlow when the ball was passed down the line to wing Jess Healey who touched down.

Flanker Mason Newborough scored the fourth try and the Rams led 28-5 at the break.

Healey, flanker Tom Bircham, full-back Andre Riddell and Alger all touched down in the second half.

Dominic Lane scored a second try when he broke from the halfway line.

Davies kicked one more conversion.

Harlow U-14s came back from 5-0 down at half-time to beat Barnet Saracens 25-5 in an ill-tempered match which saw three players sin-binned.

Barnet scored an unconverted try in a first half which saw two Rams players (David Westgarth and Frazer Bleach) receive yellow cards, along with a third for Barnet.

The Young Rams scored five tries without reply in the second half. Full-back Tom Cunningham (2), centre Mitchell Sinfield (2) and Conor Hatcher-Staines got these.

Harlow U-13s lost 10-5 at Stockwood Park.

Stockwood scored an unconverted try after five minutes.

The visitors' early second-half pressure was rewarded with an unconverted try from number eight Rhys Whithy, but Stockwood scored a second try to win the game.

Fliers on a high as Hawks pay for woeful third quarter

A TERRIBLE third quarter was the difference between winning and losing for Harlow Hawks when they lost by two points at home to Luton Fliers.

Hawks led by six points at the halfway stage (42-36) in Friday's league clash but then lost the third quarter 22-5 and it was too much of a deficit to make up.

Earlier, Hawks came from behind to level and Luton Fliers went on a 10-0 run before a Paul Jessop score broke the four-minute Hawks scoring drought.

Hawks trailed 22-17 going into the second quarter.

Harlow enjoyed a good spell midway through this quarter and then late scores from Nick Moss and Zaf Niaz gave them a 42-36 lead going into the third quarter.

Hawks did not score until the sixth minute of this period through a Shab Niaz three-pointer and only mustered two more points while the Fliers scored freely and were 58-48 ahead going into the last quarter.

Hawks then went on a 10-3 run.

With two minutes left, Fliers had again stretched their lead to eight points, and although Hawks cut the gap Luton hung on to record a win.

HARLOW HAWKS (squad): S. Niaz (21 pts), Jessop (15), Allan (9), Freeman (8), Spashett (5), Moss (5), Hinds (5), Jones (2), Z. Niaz (2), Norkielunas (1), Haddow, Burgess.

● HARLOW Hawks II were celebrating after defeating Luton Fliers II 92-52 to reach the Herts County Plate Final.

The hosts led 40-19 at half-time in last Wednesday's semi-final, before going on to win by 40 points with Rimas Norkielunas (43) and Andrew Burgess (17) scoring most of the points.

They will meet Aylesbury Dux in the final at Birchwood Leisure Centre in Hatfield on February 28 (4.20pm tip-off).

HTFC sign eight new players!

A fourth ex-Harlow player, striker Wayne Cort, also put pen to paper this week, while utility player Shaun Gliddon and former captain James Bunn have also returned to the fold.

New Hawks owner Tommy Cunningham admitted more players were likely to follow – but stressed that these would be decided by first team boss Marvin Samuel.

The signings indicate the cash now at Harlow Town's disposal.

"We need a bit of experience to dig us out of a huge hole, said 54-year-old Cunningham. "They will help improve this club."

Rookie boss Samuel – the former fans' favourite – only took over from Anthony Anstead in December, but has only managed one win in that time.

Cunningham said: "If he can do the job – great. He is inexperienced but everyone has to learn somewhere. I gave [former Hawks boss] Ryan Kirby his first opportunity as a manager. Marvin deserves his chance."

Hawks boss Marvin Samuel said: "The takeover has been uplifting as it helps to secure the club's future which is what it is all about."

"Now we have to aim to improve our performances on the field which have not been good enough."

Samuel has appointed Clasford Sterling – the father of MK Dons star Jude – as assistant boss. "He has a soccer school of excellence in North London and a real pedigree in coaching."

Alemite move into last four

ESSEX Junior Cup holders Alemite Athletic booked a spot in the last four when they thrashed Braintree & Bocking United 5-0 at home.

Anthony James and Lewis Eaglestone both bagged braces in the quarter-final tie on Saturday. Shane Bartram netted the other.

Alemite will visit Byfleet Rangers in the semi-final on March 6.

Premier division leaders North Weald lost 2-1 at home to Heath Rovers.

Hatfield Heath drew 4-4 at home to Old Street.

In division two, basement side Lower Street grabbed their third point of the season when they drew 2-2 at Frontiers.

Ryan Brown scored a brace for Frontiers.

HOPE: New signings Omar Pike, front centre, Lee Protheroe, back, and keeper James Hasell in action against Lowestoft Town on Saturday (HSP0627888)

Changes give Hawks hope

ROME was not built in a day and a Harlow Town side containing EIGHT changes and five new players from their previous match was always going to struggle against the runaway league leaders.

Former Hawks keeper James Hasell and right-back Mark Taylor started, while centre-half Danny Chapman – who had not played for 15 months – came on as a late substitute at his old stamping ground.

Former Canvey Island and Chelmsford striker Spencer Knight also started.

But it was the debut of ex-Welling United caretaker player-boss Lee Protheroe at centre-half which provides most hope. The Hawks have not had a leader of this stature on the pitch since Ryan Kirby was sacked.

Protheroe is the type of experienced footballer that Harlow desperately need as they are cut adrift 15 points away from relegation safety.

Harlow Tn 0, Lowestoft Tn 4

Ryman League, division one north

By ALAN SCOTT

Lowestoft opened the scoring after only 140 seconds when a quick through ball caught out the flat-footed Hawks defence and Gary McGee rifled past three advancing Hasell.

Close to half-time Lowestoft left-back Adam Smith struck an incredible 40-yard effort which struck the foot of Hasell's right post.

Respite was brief as the visitors went 2-0 up on 43 minutes. Craig Bussens stabbed in from close range – and promptly got a punch on the head from Hasell. Fortunately for the keeper, the referee missed this moment of madness as the scorer was laid out inside the net.

The Suffolk side should have had another in first-half stoppage time, but Bussens hit a post before both Joe Francis and Matt Nolan missed easy close-range chances as Hawks frantically scrambled the ball away.

Son after the re-start, Harlow substitute Julian Edwards was put clean through by Wayne Grant's neat pass. However, keeper Andy Reynolds superbly tipped the striker's shot away.

Hasell made two excellent saves in the second half before Lowestoft beat it 3-0 on 69 minutes as Matt Nolan beat two defenders and hammered the ball into the bottom left corner.

The rout was concluded on 71 minutes when more poor defending allowed Francis to score, firing into the bottom right corner just out of Hasell's reach.

Taylor's goal-line clearance prevented a fifth goal late on, while Hawks skipper Ryan Maxwell forced a great save from Reynolds.

New Hawks owner Cunningham added: "They [Harlow] gave a good account of themselves. Four-nil was a bit harsh but Lowestoft have got that bit of quality."

Leaders prove too good in second half

Clacton 5, Harlow 2

East Men's Hockey League, div four south east

AN inability to maintain an inspiring first-half performance after the break proved costly for Harlow as they slipped to a heavy defeat at runaway league leaders Clacton.

The first period on Saturday saw Clacton have the edge in terms of possession but the visitors' defence was in resilient mood.

Keeper Adam Johnson continued his fine form whenever the defensive duo of Kyle Plumridge and Ali Castle were beaten.

With half-time approaching, Chris Shearman-Slack eluded the home defence and fired a sublime shot in the top-left corner.

Harlow started the second half cautiously and soaked up the early pressure.

Clacton went down to 10 when a home player was sin-binned for a cynical tackle on Shearman-Slack.

Despite being a player short, Clacton stepped up a gear and drew level.

Harlow began to make mistakes and despite a few promising runs from Stuart Kirk and Adam Ottley, failed to exert much pressure.

Clacton exploited defensive mistakes to go ahead and added a third through a penalty corner.

Harlow tried to get back into the game and left holes at the back which led to them conceding two more goals.

The visitors netted a second when Ottley received a long pass on the edge of the D and rounded the defence and keeper, dribbled along the baseline to slot home from an acute angle.

Harlow are 8th in the table.

Harlow captain Joe Symonds said afterwards: "We lost to a very good team today and the performance we put in the first half shows we can match any team in this league."

Men's team shine in Run-In League

A STRONG performance came from Harlow Running Club's men team in the third Run-In Cross Country League race.

Harlow were second in Sunday's 4.6-mile race hosted by Bishop's Stortford RC.

Harlow's women had a low turn out and could only finish last.

Despite this Harlow came second overall.

In the men's race, Jared Bethell was the first Harlow finisher, coming 5th overall, closely followed by Alan Broughton (7th) and John Evans (10th).

Katie Herrington was the first Harlow woman finisher, coming 5th. She was followed by Paula Reynolds (8th).

With one race left, Harlow men's and women's teams are second and fourth respectively with the club overall in second spot.

Other Harlow RC men's results: Rick Ricketts 15th; Justin Revell 17th; David Ayling 18th; Gavin Brett 19th; Steve Mackenzie 20th; Lee Daniel 22nd; Jason Haigh 27th; Andy Sims 30th; Adrian Fell 33rd; Roy Steven 34th; John Tennant 36th; Jon Steadman 37th; John Bull 38th; Andy Terrell 42nd; Pasquale Pellechia 44th; Sean Flynn 50th; Martin McColgan 51st; Graham Pugh 55th; Alan Moir 59th; Graham Saville 73rd. Women – Claire Williams 27th; Karen Moir 31st.

Parker's Crusade

CRAIG Parker's 180 and 117 outshots helped White Admiral come back from a leg down to overcome Crusaders 7-1 in the Harlow & District Premier Darts League.

Second-placed Servo Link recovered from 3-1 down to draw 4-4 against Young Pretenders. Pretenders' Neil McKnight notched a 180.

Admiral now lead Servo by eight points.

Staple Tye Colts recorded a 6-2 win at Moot House Arrows.

Colts owed much to outshots from Martin Davies (180), Mick McNally (116) and Darren Harlow (100).

Arrows' Mick Adderson fired a 180.

Tye Green Foxes won 7-1 at United Glass, while Tye Green Whites triumphed 6-2 at home to Stow Snooker.

Colt Hatch recorded their second win of the season at Harlow Hawks (5-3).

Hawks' Dave Marriott recorded a 111 outshot.

Golden Swift drew 4-4 at home to Moot House.

Double op Cousins targets World Judo Champs

PETER Cousins faces a massive test of character as he aims to get fit in time for the World Judo Championships in Japan in September.

The 28-year-old judo player from Harlow – who represented Great Britain at the 2008 Beijing Olympics – has undergone two knee operations, the second of which was less than a fortnight ago.

Cousins, from Hookfield, sustained damage to ligaments in his left knee after competing for Great Britain at a tournament in October.

After the injury was diagnosed, he had an operation in November and then a second to improve mobility within the knee.

"I was competing in this tournament in France when my opponent put his weight on my leg when it was straight. The pain was excruciating," he said.

"After seeing a knee specialist, fortunately I did not have to wait for long [for an op]."

Cousins' movement has been severely restricted since the first op.

"I was on crutches. I could only walk to go to the loo as I could not afford too much weight on the knee," he said.

"My parents [David and Dilly] and family have been brilliant with their support. They have looked after me."

Cousins' second operation was to increase mobility.

"I was having trouble bending [the knee]. I could only bend it 90 degrees and not 110 degrees," he said.

Light training and then full contact judo will have to wait as Cousins builds up his walking first.

However, he will not be idle. "I want to concentrate on my upper body and can train at the Ripped Gym [in Wych Elm in Harlow]," he said.

"I want to get this right so when I am ready I can then concentrate on the work on my legs and the cardiovascular work and not worry about the upper body."

Rehabilitation will be slow and a definite timescale is not yet known for the player who came second in the World Judo Championships in 2007 in Brazil and third in the European Judo Championships in 2006 in Finland.

Cousins said: "I will hopefully do light training in April and then work up to the full work in late July/early August."

"The best case scenario is I make it for the World Championships in September. I do have the mental strength."

He added: "The BOA are confident in me for the Olympics. There are younger people coming through but they have not achieved what I have and they are more for 2016."

Osagie a Brit of alright with indoor best

ANDREW Osagie has targeted a medal at the Commonwealth Games 800m title this year – after claiming gold with a season's best at the Aviva World Indoor Trials and UK Championships.

The Harlow Athletic Club member, who turns 22 tomorrow (Friday), produced a season's best of 1 min 50.21 secs to win in Sheffield on Sunday.

This was just two seconds short of the qualifying time required for the World Indoor Championships in Doha next month.

However, the Commonwealth Games at Delhi in October is his main objective.

Osagie, of Northbrooks, Harlow, said: "I set my standards very high for myself so I am training with the Commonwealth Games in mind.

"I am an ambitious athlete so I don't want to set myself a ceiling this year; I would love to be successful at the Commonwealth games and I'm going for it."

Osagie overhauled Blackburn's Paul Bradshaw (2nd 1:50.55) on the home straight to take top spot on the podium.

"It was such a great feeling and it has been a long time coming so I am really happy," said Osagie.

"It was always going to be a very tactical race and Ed Aston is really good over the last 500m while Paul Bradshaw's sprints are really good so it makes winning that little bit better."

Osagie, plagued by injury over the last two years, is gunning for a place at the sport's top table. "I feel like myself again and I feel ready for anything," he said.

"I had a series of injuries over the years, a stress fracture in my foot and injuries to my shin and hip, so I am just happy to put that all behind me now.

"I am feeling really good and my training is going really good, which I must thank St Mary's University for because they are helping me."

"When I had all my injuries things were starting to get to me and I was starting to get down but they really helped me out."

● Aviva is proud to have been the No. 1 sponsor of UK Athletics since 1999 and is committed to developing the sport at every level, from playground to podium.

New chairman wants to take Hawks to the top

By ALAN SCOTT

NEW Hawks chairman John Barnett is confident he and Tommy Cunningham can take the football club back to the upper echelons of the non-League pyramid.

Harlow Town FC boss Marvin Samuel will get the budget he needs to try and transform a team which is marooned at the foot of the Ryman division one north table.

Barnett is desperate for the club to avoid dropping into the Essex Senior League – and he wants to see the side back in the Ryman premier as soon as possible.

"We have come in and what we are going to try and do is get us back to where we should be," said Barnett, a former director at Tottenham Hotspur.

He told the fans: "We need your support. When Tom was in charge before the support was terrific. This stadium is without doubt one of the best in the Ryman League.

"We want to make this football club great. We want to make this a place to bring your friends."

"It's onwards and upwards. We are going to do our best – it may take a bit longer but we will get there."

But it is on the pitch that Harlow must start to put together a winning formula.

Amid constant changes on the pitch, the Hawks have won just one league game since Marvin Samuel replaced Anthony Anstead in December. This week Samuel's assistant Mervin Abraham quit the club. He came in with Anstead during the summer.

Paul West-Hook has returned as physio and former boss Ryan Kirby's assistant Kevin Warren has also been brought in.

Commenting on this duo and the return of three former players in keeper James Hasell, right-back Mark Taylor and centre-half Danny Chapman, Hawks joint owner Tommy Cunningham said.

"We have asked them to come back to the club or be part of the club and we are putting a group of people together that will give us a chance for the rest of the season," he explained.

"They are the right types and they have got the interests of the club at heart which at this moment in time is the most important thing."

HTFC sign eight players!

HAWKS turned back the clock with the arrival of three former players – but it was the acquisition of centre-half Lee Protheroe which could prove a significant signing. Former Welling United caretaker manager Protheroe started in Saturday's defeat to runaway leaders Lowestoft Town after signing from Ryman premier Wealdstone. He joined former Chelmsford striker

Spencer Knight – signed from Maldon Town – as well as former Hawks keeper James Hasell and right-back Mark Taylor. A third ex-Hawks, centre-half Danny Chapman, was on the bench. Cont'd on page 47
